Student learning incorporates a variety of methods, strategies and skills. Therefore, in an attempt to evaluate student achievement accurately and equitably, various methods of alternative assessment may be employed in the grading of students, including:

• Tests are an assessment of cumulative knowledge and understanding of a unit of study and may include the following: multiple-choice, definitions, fill-ins, short answers, character and line recognition, and essay questions.
• Quizzes are evaluations of short-term knowledge and understanding of homework assignments and class lessons that may be announced or unannounced and may include the following: multiple-choice, fill-ins, short answers, terms and definitions.
• Homework enables student to exercise and reinforce their understanding and knowledge of the contents and skills taught in a class: readings, essays, definitions, research, projects, revisions, editing, journal responses. In some cases a long-term assignment may be given; students must plan their time accordingly.
• Class Participation is an integral part of the learning process where students demonstrate their on-going understanding of content and concepts taught. It is both a learning and evaluative tool that is a requirement of the course. Participation may include: class discussion, engagement, cooperative group work, presentations, and notebook review.
• Papers and Projects will be assigned as both instructional tools and as assessment instrument: group and individual presentations, formal writing assignments, portfolios, letters, short stories, class anthologies, editorials, newspapers, scripts, skits, interviews, debates, artwork, cartoons, photo essays, maps and games. Papers and projects will generally have the weight of a test grade unless otherwise indicated.
